Helix 200 Door handle

Knurled resilient door handle with a raw sense of elegant industrialism

The industrial trend is growing stronger and we are seeing more and more expressive homes with a dramatic touch of the raw and industrial. Even in the stylish and sophisticated home, one would like to have details that stand out and create a lovely contrast. Helix 200 is both neat and practical with its knurled surface.

Helix 200 is ideal for all indoor doors, and can be combined with other door accessories and products from our range. The door handle has a resilient spring which means that the door handle always goes back to its basic position. Available in four designs - brushed brass, black, stainless steel look, and antique bronze. The door handle and escutcheon fits doors with 35-48 mm thickness.
